Car theft gang eyed in killing of key witness

By Philip C. Tubeza and Dona Z. Pazzibugan

MEMBERS of the car theft syndicate reportedly led by the Dominguez brothers are the prime suspects in the killing of Alfred Mendiola, a key witness in a government case against the notorious siblings, Justice Secretary Leila de Lima said yesterday.

De Lima said that Mendiola had avoided the security escorts the government Witness Protection Program (WPP) had wanted to provide him and that he had not informed his handlers where he was going when he last left his safe house.

"His testimony was very important and he was really able to pin down the Dominguez brothers. So, under these circumstances, we can really say that, as of this moment, the syndicate is the No. 1 suspect," De Lima told reporters.

Mendiola and two other men were found dead, bound and gagged in Dasmariñas City in Cavite province on Sunday morning. The three victims

Defense: Senator can't be impartial

By Marlon Ramos

CITING conflict of interest, defense lawyers yesterday moved to inhibit Sen. Edgardo Angara from sitting as a judge in the impeachment trial of Chief Justice Renato Corona.

In a seven-page motion, the defense counsels said recent events, including the approval by the government of multibillion-peso projects in Angara's home province of Aurora, may affect the senator's "partiality in favor of the Liberal Party and President Benigno C. Aquino."

Corona's lawyers also noted that Angara's son, Aurora Rep. Juan Edgardo "Sonny" Angara, was a member of House prosecution panel as a spokesperson.

"Without doubt, the grounds for the inhibition of [Angara] are clear and unequivocal," the lawyers said.

"The mere participation of [Angara's son] in any aspect of these proceedings places [the senator] in a position of potential conflict. What seems to be missed in all this is that [Sonny] is the son and direct descendant of Senator-judge Angara," they added.

The defense earlier called for the inhibition of Sen. Franklin Drilon, who had been accused of working with the prosecution lawyers.

The petition against Angara was signed by Corona's lead counsel, retired Supreme Court Associate Justice Serafin Cuevas, and defense lawyers Noel

Leftist elected French president

PARIS—France handed the presidency on Sunday to leftist Francois Hollande, a champion of government stimulus programs who says the state should protect the downtrodden—a victory that could deal a death blow to the drive for austerity that has been the hallmark of Europe in recent years.

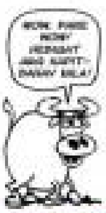

Mild and affable, the president-elect inherits a country deep in debt and divided over how to integrate immigrants while preserving its national identity. Markets will closely watch his initial moves as president.

Hollande narrowly defeated the hard-driving, attention-getting Nicolas Sarkozy, an America-friendly leader who led the country through its worst economic troubles since World War II but whose policies and personality proved too brash for many voters to swallow.

Final election results showed Hollande with 51.62 percent of the vote. Sarkozy garnered 48.38 percent, giving Hollande a winning margin of 1.13 million votes. Voter turnout was 80.34 percent.

Giddy revelers thronged Paris' Bastille square to celebrate Hollande's victory, erupting into cheers and rejoicing not

Black-eyed Tulfo sues Raymart, Claudine

By Mike Morales

A BLACK eye was all the evidence that Inquirer columnist and radio host Ramon Tulfo brought to the prosecutor's office yesterday.

Tulfo filed grave coercion and physical injury charges against showbiz couple Raymart Santiago and Claudine Barretto and six others who ganged up on him at the airport on Sunday in what netizens billed "Thrilla in Naia."

Wearing the same vest he had on during the attack, Tulfo said he decided to press charges against the Santiagos because of the mauling he received from the group.

Despite being outnumbered, "I did not back down," said Tulfo.

"I would have charged this to experience," he told the Inquirer after filing the complaint in the Pasay City Prosecutor's Office. "But the cussing I received from her [Claudine] changed my mind. Besides, this should serve as a lesson to them to respect lowly people (mallit na tao)."

Foreign reserves up 11% to $76B in April

Officials say month-on-month decline due to debt payments

By Michelle V. Remo

THE COUNTRY'S foreign exchange reserves rose to nearly $76 billion by end-April from a year ago as remittances and inflows remained robust, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas yesterday reported.

Data from the BSP showed that the gross international reserves (GIR) hit $75.97 billion by the end of April—rising by 11 percent from the $68.49 billion reported in the same period last year.

But compared with March, April's figure came in slightly lower as the government paid off some of its foreign debts while the value of the central bank's gold holdings declined based on the prevailing metal prices in the world market, the BSP said in a statement. As of last month, gold accounted for ... billion of the central bank's reserves.

In March, the GIR stood at $76.13 billion.

Also in April, the country for the third straight month marked a decline in its foreign exchange reserve.

Still, monetary officials said the remittances so far this year were on track of projections, posting a 5-percent growth from last year's $20.1 billion as international demand for Filipino workers remained strong.

The central bank expects reserves to climb to a record $79 billion at the end of 2012.

Also, the country's balance of payments surplus may narrow down to $2.8 billion, or 1.1 percent of gross domestic product, this year, from $11.4 billion in 2011, BSP officials said.

Apart from remittances, inflows to the country's business process outsourcing sector and foreign portfolio investments are considered to be drivers of the country's foreign exchange reserves.

The BSP said the country's latest GIR would be enough to cover 11.4 months of the country's imports, and 6.4 times the Philippines' foreign debts maturing over the short term.

According to central bank officials, the country has a comfortable GIR level, indicating its ability to fully service obligations to foreign creditors.

Foreign exchange reserves worth at least four months of imports are considered healthy based on international benchmarks.

In recent months, the Philippines has been pitching for an upgrade in its credit ratings, as economic officials claim significant improvement in the country's creditworthiness over the years.

The rising GIR and the government's declining debt burden point to an improvement in the country's credit standing, finance officials said, claiming that the Philippines deserves a rating upgrade.

Currently the country is rated two notches below investment grade by Moody's Investors Service and Standard & Poor's, and a notch below investment grade by Fitch Ratings. With a report from Reuters

Share prices knocked down by EU concerns

LOCAL SHARE prices yesterday tumbled as global jitters over the defeat of incumbent leaders in France and Greece added to profit-taking pressures.

The main-share Philippine Stock Exchange index gave up 68.02 points, or 1.3 percent to finish at 5,250.83, pulling back for the second straight session after breaking record levels last week.

All counters ended in the red but the most battered were the mining/oil and financial counters which fell by ... percent and ... percent, respectively.

East West Bank, which listed on the PSE last week, managed to buck the downtrend. Its share price surged by 6.8 percent from its initial public offering price. ...

Asean urged to defer single currency plans

SOUTHEAST Asian countries will have to shelve their single currency plans for a while, or until the euro zone is able to overcome its financial problems and prove that having a common legal tender for the region is still the way to go, according to Asian Development Bank's chief economist.

"The euro zone should serve as a guide for Asia," ADB's Changyong Rhee said in a press conference last week when asked about the merits of integrating economies in Southeast Asia.

"Having a single currency and a large union (of economies) may create problems. Let's see how they (Europe) solve their problems and then let's study whether it is still prudent to have a single currency."

Rhee said it would be unwise for members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Asean) to begin serious talk about having a single currency when the euro zone countries are still struggling with serious debt and economic problems.

For now, Rhee said, it would be best for Asean members to focus on strengthening their economic ties. He said the concrete plans laid out in the economic integration of Asean by 2015 would suffice for now.

Tantocos sell half of Rustans Supercenters' stake

By Doris C. Dumlao

THE TANTOCO family has sold half of its stake in upscale grocery chains Shopwise and Rustan's Supermarket to Dairy Farm International Holdings Ltd., a Pan-Asia retailing group affiliated with the Hong Kong-based Jardine Matheson conglomerate.

In a statement yesterday, the Tantocos' privately held Rustans Supercenters Inc. (RSCI) announced that it had taken in Dairy Farm as a new shareholder with a 50-percent stake, with the remaining 50 percent being retained by the family.

RSCI operates the Shopwise chain of hypermarkets and Rustan's Supermarkets.

While sharing ownership of the family's grocery business, Bienvenido Tantoco III remains chief executive officer and president of RSCI.

The value of the deal was not disclosed.

"We are extremely pleased to be partners with the Dairy Farm Group," Tantoco said. "This undertaking will not only strengthen RSCI's position as a leading retailer in the country, but it will also translate to more employment for Filipinos, more value and choices for customers, and enhanced shareholder value."

The entry of Dairy Farm is expected to strengthen RSCI's position as one of the country's leading retailers, the company statement said.

"RSCI will benefit from Dairy Farm's extensive pan-Asian operations, its expertise in various retail formats, strong balance sheet, and its membership in the Jardine Matheson Group," the statement said. "Dairy Farm's international expertise is expected to complement the Tantocos' in-depth experience in Philippine retailing."

Founded in 1970, Rustan's Supermarket operates 20 branches in Metro Manila and two in Cebu, according to the company's website.

For the Shopwise chain, a Securities and Exchange Commission filing for "Shopwise Inc." shows a parent company with P1.04 billion in total assets.

As of end 2011, Dairy Farm operated over 5,300 outlets and had total annual sales exceeding $10 billion.

It operates supermarkets, hypermarkets, health and beauty stores, convenience stores, home furnishings stores and restaurants under well-known brands.

It is listed on the London Stock Exchange with secondary listings in Bermuda and Singapore.

Expansion in Europe, Mexico boosts IMI Q1 net

Ayala-led firm sees increased business in Asia

By Doris C. Dumlao

AYALA-LED Integrated Micro-Electronics Inc. hiked its first quarter net profit by 128 percent to $[illegible] year-on-year.

The growth was boosted by the company's business expansion in Europe and Mexico, and the reduction in operating expenses.

IMI, a leading worldwide provider of electronics manufacturing services (EMS) and power semiconductor assembly and test services (SATS), grew its consolidated sales revenue by 24 percent to $[illegible] million during the first three months of the year from year-ago levels.

"With our company's implementation of a global geographic expansion, we have realized diversity in markets and operations. A healthy mix of customers and programs has cushioned the effects on our financial performance of the global electronics industry slowdown," said IMI president and chief executive officer Arthur Tan.

IMI's subsidiaries in Europe and Mexico contributed $[illegible] million in combined revenues in the first quarter.

In the meantime, the company's operations in China and Singapore reported $[illegible] million in combined revenues, a decline of [illegible] percent year-on-year due primarily to a reduction in turnkey sales to a customer in the telecommunications infrastructure market.

IMI's Philippine operations generated $[illegible] million revenue, [illegible] percent higher year-on-year. The growth was attributed to strong programs in the consumer and automotive segments.

PSi Technologies, Inc., a subsidiary of IMI, recorded $[illegible] million in revenue.

"We remain financially stable with a cash balance of $[illegible] million at the end of the first quarter of this year," said Tan.

"In an environment of fragile global economic expansion, we are confident that we will grow our business for the rest of the year," Tan added.

For 2012, Tan said IMI had a robust sales pipeline for the automotive, industrial, consumer and renewable energy markets.

"We expect more business in Asia given the sustainable outlook of high growth rate for China and the rest of emerging Asia. Likewise, we will tap into our broader global footprint and expanded technical capability to take advantage of the growing economies like Japan, the United States, Germany and France," he said.
